19.45 – 20.10

Joe SOLO

Joe Solo is a musician, writer, broadcaster and activist, at the heart of We Shall Overcome's forthcoming May Day Solidarity event. Joe's latest album Never Be Defeated tells the story of the men and women of Stainforth and Dunscroft during the Miner's strike.

Compered by ATTILA THE STOCKBROKER

Attila the Stockbroker has spent 35 years touring the world, doing well over 3000 gigs in 24 countries. He is currently in the middle of a mammoth tour of the UK promoting his new autobiography, Arguments Yard.

20.30 – 21.00

THE HURRIERS

Barnsley band The Hurriers have played numerous festivals, including Glastonbury and the Tolpuddle Martyrs event. They have close connections to the Orgreave Truth and Justice Campaign and the We Shall Overcome movement. Their debut album From Acorns Mighty Oaks was released a few months ago.

21.30 - 22.45

LOUISE DISTRAS

Louise Distras, Wakefield-born post-punk singer songwriter, incorporates the acoustic guitar into riotous pop songs. Distras's sound has been accurately pinpointed as "the rebirth of British punk; reinvented for a new generation". Distras's star continues to rise in 2016 with the heavily anticipated follow up to her 2013 debut Dreams from the Factory Floor.

Beneficiaries: Last year the funds raised by With Banners Held High were distributed to:

The Orgreave Truth and Justice Campaign, the main beneficiary, received £8000. The OTJC Secretary, Barbara Jackson, said, 'This was the largest sum of money received to date by the campaign and, following the 30th anniversary commemorations, it gave our bank account an enormous boost and cushion to carry on our work for a public enquiry.'

Justice for Mineworkers received £2000 which went to give each of the surviving 19 sacked or victimised miners money for Christmas.

One-to-One Development Trust received £500 towards creating a sub-titled version of the film With Banners Held High to make the film more accessible to ex-miners who have hearing loss.

This year the beneficiaries from With Banners Held High will be the Oaks Memorial Trust, Justice for Mineworkers and the Orgreave Truth and Justice Campaign.

Thanks to: Ann Simpson, formerly with the Confédération Générale du Travail's (CGT) International Department, who has been tremendously helpful in establishing links with the CGT. In particular we acknowledge the material provided by the CGT Social History Institute (IHS CGT) for the exhibition and the book Pit Props.
